

International Weeks Against Racism

Events in the City of Dresden
From March 16 to April 6, 2017

100 percent dignity – together against racism

The International Action Week Against Racism is a nationwide event series for solidarity with the opponents and the victims of racism. In November 2016 the mayor of Dresden, Dirk Hilbert called on the people of Dresden to participate in the event series in order to “show what the majority of Dresdeners stand for: A peaceful cohabitation and solidarity in a city where all its inhabitants, regardless of their national, cultural, religious or social affiliation, can lead a secure life in dignity and justice.” The result is a versatile programme. Please find more detailed information on the event at www.dresden.de/iwgr
