

Civic involvement

Local stakeholders should take part in the planning and realization of every funding project within the bounds of possibility, and as soon as possible.

People and groups concerned:

- Residents
- Real estate owners
- Businessmen, businesswomen and shopkeepers
- Associations, action groups and various citizens' initiatives
- Communities based on faith or on social / cultural targets
- Other persons interested in the well-being and progress of the respective districts

Civic participation, civil social dialogue and civic empowerment shall be enhanced wherever and whenever possible. It is assumed that innovation, networking and the cooperation of citizens and local businesses will help a great lot enforcing neighbourhood redevelopment.

There will be more classical forms of public relations as leaflets, brochures, cooperation with the local media and an internet site as well as workshops and a steady feedback with schools and universities.
